Sewer breaks, street cave-ins continue in Bay

By Rich Adams

Two sections of Bay St. Louis, Ballentine Street in the 400 block caved in this week due to sewer problems, thus continuing the series of sewer breaks, street cave-ins and water main blowouts plaguing the city.

"I'm trying every possible way to obtain a loan or grant," stated Mayor Larry Bennett.

"The cost of repairs throughout the city has been estimated at $100,000, and we just don't have that kind of money," he said.

Bennett has met with several agencies seeking relief from the sewage problems which have been cropping up over the city for 8 or 9 months.

The mayor reported has met with Trent Lott, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Economic Development Council, and contacted the Department of Housing and Urban Development, on the basis the sewer problems present "a serious health hazard."

Bennett said he is not sure of the cause of the cave ins and says they might be from "shifting sand or possibly faulty installation."

The two cave ins Monday became the second and third in about two months along a 30-foot stretch of the 400 block of Ballentine Street.

Five Hancock residents injured while stopped at intersection

By RICH ADAMS

Five Hancock County residents were injured in a three-car collision at the intersection of US-90 and DeMontluzin Street in Bay St. Louis Wednesday morning.

The 10 a.m. accident occurred when a pick up truck driven by Keith Dehaan, 16, of Clermont Harbor allegedly turned onto US-90 from DeMontluzin Street, sideswiping a car driven by Frank Welcox, 48, of Slidell, who was headed eastbound on the highway, police said.

The Welcox car in turn smashed head-on into a car driven by Donna Crosby, 18, of Bay St. Louis, who was attempting to enter US-90 from the opposite direction on DeMontluzin,

He said his agency is spearheading an all-out campaign to make the 102-hour celebration fatality-free.

"Last year's tragic accidents cost Mississippians and their insurance companies more than $135,000 in damages," he continued. "More important than that was the tragic loss of twelve people who died in traffic mishaps."

According to Pardue, roadblocks will Oakland Raiders professional football team.

Piazza, an outstanding punter as well, recently signed a contract with the California pro squad, according to Delta State's sports information office.

Even though he was named the top punter in the Gulf Coast Conference last year, Piazza said he is fully aware that the challenge of competing against the best of the National Football League is a formidable one.

Ray Guy, Oakland's punter, is in a class of his own, but I'm hoping to do the best I can and see what happens after that, Piazza said.

Piazza, a 5-1, 192-pounder, has already been to California twice for two mini-camps and will return to Santa Rosa July 10 when the Raiders open pre-season drills.

I know Ray is No. one, but I hope to do well enough in camp to get some exposure, Piazza added. I feel like I

HANCOCK GROWN WATERMELONS - Revon Shaw of Hancock County tosses watermelon to truckers loading shipment Tuesday for Arkansas. Hancock farmers Jerry Shaw and Don Smith planted 70 acres of watermelons with average weight of the crop now at 36 per melon and some weighing 40 pounds each. Pete Odom, State Agriculture Department representative, and Jim "Rocky" Rod, state agriculture commissioner, met with Hancock farmers in Biloxi last week to help set the Arkansas sales. Odom, here for the loading this week, said the state is trying to set up buying stations in North Hancock County for Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone County farmers next year if enough acreage is planted in watermelons. Roland Ladner, Hancock farmer, came up with the idea of a state buying station, according to Odom. Ladner's melons should be ready for shipment by mid-July. Odom said a big problem is getting trucks to ship the melons. Two were used for Tuesday's shipment. (Staff photo - Ellis Cuevas)

Dantin faces Thad Cochran in the November general election.

Dantin in Hancock took 26 of 30 boxes.

Finch led in West Shoreline Park, Catohoula, Dedeaux and Bayou Phillips.

Jason Floyd Jr. took a commanding lead in Hancock County with 1,551 votes to 825 for Eldon Bolton in the Eighth District Chancery Court, Post 2, Democratic judgeship nomination.

Bolton of Biloxi took Harrison County 8,379 to 7,781 but also lost in Stone County to Floyd 806-686.

In the three-county judgeship race unofficially, Floyd received 10,028 to 9,890 for Bolton.

Floyd, a resident of Pass Christian is unopposed in the November general election for the position now held by Chancellor Frank Alexander, who is stepping down. However, independents have until late September to qualify.

Hancock County Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis reported the first box to reach his office was West Shoreline Park at 6:30 p.m. Both Finch and Bolton were leaders but not long in Hancock County. The final box to check in at 7:30 p.m. was Standard Precinct. See Hancock County precinct box scores and totals on page 6A.

Pierre-the-Pelican helps with mental health care

Raising a first-born child can often develop into a stress-causing situation, but new parents in Hancock County have a friend that helps them through a seeming "crisis" each month.

Pierre-the-Pelican, a cartoon-like character of the Mental Health Association in Mississippi, visits with new parents throughout the state in the form of a monthly educational newsletter and tip sheet.

"Pierre", as he is fondly referred to by parents states, "In mental health, you have to think a long way ahead, for the way you begin to care for the baby now is likely to be the way you continue for years to come."

"Young children go through a number of stages of development; and through these pamphlets, I will be bringing some ideas on what to expect and what to do to help the child develop properly."

There are 237 parents in Hancock County receiving the free advice which is funded partially by charitable donations and a grant from the Mississippi Department of Mental Health.

Pierre-the-Pelican became a reality in Mississippi in February 1975. Named one of the most massive parent education programs ever undertaken in the state, Pierre's co-sponsors, the Mental Health Association in Mississippi and the Mississippi Department of Mental Health, were assisted in launching Pierre into statewide distribution by the Mississippi Medical Auxiliary (Central Medical Auxiliary) and the Mississippi Regional Medical Program.

The initial concept of Pierre was developed by Dr. Loyd Rowland of New Orleans over twenty-five years ago. To date, the series has been translated into four languages.

In its third year in Mississippi, Pierre is now reaching 20,500 homes of first born children. The program consists of a series of twenty-eight pamphlets. Pamphlets are sent monthly according to a schedule until the child reaches his sixth birthday.

This program has been thoughtfully worked out to reach the new parents at the right time and with the information they need.

Little is said about the physical care of the child; instead, the child's psychological development is the focus.

In Pierre's eighth message he asks, "Do you love your baby as she is? You see, if you

Nutrition education program spelled out by USDA

Interim regulations for a new nutrition education and training program in the nation's schools and child care institutions have been reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"The interim regulations require states that participate in the program to assess their nutrition education and training needs, said Ms. Carol Foreman, USDM assistant secretary.

"States will identify and locate children in need of nutrition education. They will also assess teachers' need for training in nutrition education and the training needs of school food service personnel," she added.

These interim regulations are the second and final part of regulations that initiate the new program.

"After a state has assessed its need, it will provide USDA with a plan that tells how each state need will be confronted. The new program has the full commitment of the Department and to work best it will take local initiative and cooperation so the program can be tailored to each state's situation," Foreman added.

The nutrition education and training program was authorized by Public Law 95-166, enacted in Nov. 1977.

The purpose of the program is to help children, teachers, and school food service personnel become informed, knowledgeable consumers by teaching them the relationship between nutrition, good food and health.

Interim regulations giving states instructions on applying for the program and also giving them authority to hire a state nutrition education coordinator were published March 24.

The Department issued both sets of regulations initiating the program in interim form so that states would have rules to begin operation immediately.

The Department welcomes written comments on both sets of interim regulations and will consider them before publishing final regulations.

To be assured of consideration, comments on these interim regulations and those interim regulations will be received by July 24. The second set of interim regulations appeared in the Federal Register of June 9. Comments and suggestions on the interim regulation should be submitted to the Acting Director, Nutrition and Technical Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

"You'll never know how helpless these newsletters have been to me. I'm a little more relaxed knowing a little more about what to expect in the months and years to come."

"From Biloxi we hear, 'We are so proud of the pamphlets you are sending us! A mother from Forest writes, 'We are so informative, and we really do love them. The articles are adorable, and we've already fallen in love with Pierre."

Real estate body emphasizes role in education

The Mississippi Real Estate Commission, responsible for licensing and regulation of the real estate industry, is strengthening its emphasis on education for both the public and the industry, according to T.L. Carraway Jr., chairman of the commission.

Last week, the commission and its educational advisory council met in Jackson to formulate plans and examine the role of the real estate industry in Mississippi.

The council is comprised of leading educators, members of the Real Estate Commission, and representatives of the Realtors' educational committee, and licensed brokers.

A major item of discussion centered around plans to offer free educational programs to the public and those involved in real estate by the commission and the Mississippi Association of Realtors.

Seminars would be made available in principal cities across the state during the coming year. The council also voted to research the possibility of having real estate educational oriented films on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

Dr. Charles Cartee, representing the University of Southern Mississippi, discussed the possibility of a research project to survey the industry to determine such statistical data as the average education and income level of those licensed to sell real estate in Mississippi.

All the Seniors who attended our Birthday Party on Monday, at the American Legion Hall Post No. 77 stated that without doubt, the dancers were the finest they have seen in their particular field of endeavor.

The variety of far Eastern (Oriental) dancing, and their interpretive style was outstanding.

Iesha and her Arabian Delight have made personal appearances at many of the big supper clubs throughout the United States. They have appeared here on the coast at the Biloxi Hilton and Sheraton Hotels.

Recently they appeared here on the coast at the Edgewater Plaza Mall, in an exhibition of Greek Folk Dancing.

They also instructed members of the audience on the art of this type of dancing.

All of the Seniors who attended, extend their best wishes, success, and a special thank you, to these wonderful performers.

Prior to the appearance of the dancers, the Seniors were entertained by our versatile pianist and organist, Louis Burghard.

Louis is quite versatile, he also plays the ukulele and mandolin.

He is also a vocalist and comedian. To the Seniors who saw "Musical Variety '78" can attest to that, as his rendition of The Man on the Flying Trapeze proved that Louis is quite a comedian.

The seniors and I thank Louis Burghard for the many times he has appeared at our functions. Yours truly played the drums and sang Let me Call you Sweetheart and Cadetown Strutters Ball.

Not a garbage dump

Looking at these three photos, it would be hard to convince anyone that this site on the Bayou LaCroix Road isn't a garbage dump or sanitary land fill, or whatever you call a place to dump garbage and trash.

These photos were taken on Monday of this week, and you can see new as well as old garbage and trash.

Signs were posted, barriers put up, but, some people can't read or see, it seems.

The official sanitary land fill dump is located on the old Catahoula Road, and in photos taken this week looks very good compared to this site.

It was also reported to us a load of garbage had been dumped in the cemetery on Bayou La Croix Road. Now isn't that a disgrace?

We feel the only way to educate these people with so little thought for the dead, and also for dumping garbage and trash in areas not authorized, is to make them pay through the nose.

There are severe laws in Mississippi, we are told, about littering, and if this isn't littering, we don't know what is.

If the area were patrolled, especially on weekends, we feel most of the parties responsible for dumping this garbage and trash could be cited.

By paying stiff fines a few times, they would become educated about the law in a hurry. We feel the Justice Court judges are aware of the severe disgrace to our community this free dumping causes and they would put maximum fines on those caught.

We realize it will cost the Board of Supervisors to put the extra patrols on, but it probably won't cost as much as the clean up of the garbage they leave each week. In Hancock County we have far too much garbage being thrown all over our road. Now is the time for everyone to get real tough on offenders.

Let's all strive to make Hancock County the cleanest County in the State.

GARBAGE AND TRASH - Some people don't realize that the sanitary land fill is now located in another area. All types of garbage and trash are being dumped on the Bayou La Croix Road.

Hancock 911 emergency call system approaches

By RICH ADAMS

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett met with representatives of the South Central Bell Telephone Company at City Hall Wednesday to discuss proposed installation of a "911" emergency telephone system in this area.

The system had been proposed earlier this year for Bay St. Louis and Waveland by South Central Bell.

"We will probably have the system soon-it's just a matter of working out some unforeseen problems," said Mayor Larry Bennett.

The 911 system would eliminate leafing through the telephone book in an emergency. It allows a caller to dial the numbers 911 connecting him with a central dispatcher, who would in turn connect the caller to the appropriate emergency agency—police, ambulance, or fire department.

Fred Rogers, South Central Bell's executive for local government accounts, met with the mayor Wednesday to discuss the system.

"Our general concern here is that three government entities want to provide a service to the people, but we want all the problems knocked out before starting it," said Rogers.

"The proposition is that Bay St. Louis will be the central dispatching agency."

said Mayor Bennett. "This would put a burden on the dispatchers we already have, and we would have to hire additional dispatchers," he added.

Quoting statistics from the police department, the mayor pointed out that Bay St. Louis already handles approximately 800 to 900 emergency calls a month and the Waveland department takes around 200 calls a month. He attests the dispatchers are "already overburdened."

"The '911' system is derived from Europe," said Rogers. "They use the numbers 999, and it is easily remembered."

Gulfport and Biloxi are going on the system on August 21," Rogers continued. "Ocean Springs obtained the service in May of this year and Pascagoula and Moss Point have had the system for some time. We want to have 911 all across the southern part of Mississippi," he stated.

"911 is used in the North very much. We would be making it easier for tourists as well as ourselves if we got the system," said Rogers.

"If calling from a pay telephone, a dime would still be required," said Fred M. Kyle Jr., another Bell executive.

"It would be the same as calling an operator for emergency assistance," he continued, "and your dime would probably be returned."

Kyle said the company has not yet determined if the dime from a 911 emergency call made from a pay station will be returned.

The cost for the service would be approximately $5 a month for one unit and a back up unit. According to the mayor, the expenses would be shared between the two cities.

An announcement will be made explaining the system actually being put into service. "We will put advertisements in the newspaper and make up stickers," stated Rogers. "We'll have a full public awareness program."

4TH OF JULY

ONLY THE POSTS STANDS - At one time there were signs which stated no dumping. The signs have been burned and torn down at this site on Bayou La Croix Road. It is not a garbage dump, but, it sure looks like one. (Staff photos - J. Randy Ponder)

CRACK DOWN IS NEEDED - Law enforcement is needed on the unlawful dumping of trash and garbage in Hancock County. The sanitary land fill is located on the old Catahoula Road, some folks who still use the Bayou La Croix Road need to be reminded by a few fines, and maybe they will get the message.

-Read the directions on the package.

-Always have a supervising adult present when children are involved with fireworks.

-Always light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses and away from flammable materials.

-Light only one device at a time.

-Keep at a safe distance after lighting the devices.

directed the school district to meet the individual needs of the child.

"The child's individual educational program must be rewritten to include provision for physical therapy (i.e. the child to walk portions of the day on his crutches as prescribed by his doctor), recreational therapy instead of sitting idle during recess and a more restrictive class environment (i.e. cooperation between teacher and parents to work on child's problem of short attention span)," Brooks continued. "Under Public Law 94-124, the parents' request for complete up-to-date educational testing and attendance to the child's personal hygienic care, namely diaper changing, were all granted."

"The question here is not whether the school system has the personnel or resources to accomplish what the parents have requested," Brooks added, "but rather are the parents entitled under the law. The answer is yes, the parents should be granted the requests that they have made to the Meridian Public Schools."

The Mississippi System of Protection and Advocacy for Developmentally Disabled Individuals was established by P.L. 94-103. The system pursues legal and administrative remedies on behalf of people with developmental disabilities (autism, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or mental retardation).

can punt in the NFL and really contribute."

Piazza, who was selected as Delta State's top offensive lineman in 1977, led the Gulf South Conference in punting a year ago by averaging 42.7 yards, setting a new league record for a single season.

A two-year letterman at Delta State after transferring from Pearl River Junior College, Piazza became one of the most consistent punters in Statesmen history.

His 42.7 average also established a new Delta State mark, breaking the old punting record of 41.5 set by Buster Hudson in 1971. The old Gulf South Conference record was a 42.2 average produced by Nicholls State's Terry Magee in 1975.

While attending Pearl River J. C. Piazza rated All-State honors and was selected as the Most Valuable Lineman in the Mississippi Junior College Conference.

Drug bust

Editor:
The Sea Coast Echo

Please print this letter in your paper, for those people using drugs, who may not be informed of what jail really means.

I am presently serving a three year sentence for possession and distribution of marijuana.

Many of you probably feel marijuana is not that bad or at least not as bad as other drugs.

This is not what I'm concerned with. I am concerned with getting busted.

Jail, my friends, is no holiday. It can get to be a test on your sanity.

Bars on windows keep you from an unobstructed view of the outside world. You have no choice of what foods you eat or how it is prepared.

Conveniences such as privacy when using the toilet are out.

Although you may feel your crime of using drugs isn't all that bad, it is still a crime. If you get busted, you will share a cell with other criminals.

Think about that, living with sexual perverts, murderers or people who just don't give a damn if you live or die.

So I ask you to consider, is that buzz you have right now so good that you would risk going to jail.

If you say yes, alright then, I'll be seeing you.

Boos beach bums

Editor

How many times have you walked on our beaches after a weekend or holiday tourist onslaught to find our beautiful beach covered with garbage and broken bottles?

How many times have you or your children cut your foot on glass in the sand or water?

For this reason alone, glass containers should be prohibited for the beach area.

How many times have you seen people driving or parking on the beach?

Many of our residents would never consider doing such a thoughtless thing.

Take a look at the beaches in Freeport and Galveston, Texas, to see the damage and erosion beach driving causes.

Littering and beach driving should be plainly posted as to the lawlessness and the fines to be invoked.

I don't think it would scare off the tourist and their dollars if we tighten up and fine them or make them clean up the beaches or both.

It will set an example that we won't tolerate the rape of our town.

I applaud our police force everytime I see them catch an offender but I realize they are under staffed and can't be everywhere everytime the population swells.

We, as citizens, should keep an eye opened and kindly remind the offenders of the law and report them if they don't abide.

Many out-of-towners are law abiding people who respect the beauty here but a few careless, thoughtless people can spoil it for everyone.

We have a beautiful town. Let us all work to keep it this way.

Health and Safety

From the American Medical Association

Heart disease is a broad term that covers many different types of disorders.

Heart and blood vessel ailments are the leading cause of death in the United States. Millions of people are walking around with some sort of heart or circulatory problem.

No one can tell you positively that a given pattern of life will prevent a heart attack. There are still many unknowns. But there is enough evidence on the causes of heart attacks to suggest a few fundamentals, the American Medical Association points out.

The Mississippi System of Protection and Advocacy for Developmentally Disabled Individuals was established by P.L. 94-103. The system pursues legal and administrative remedies on behalf of people with developmental disabilities (autism, cerebral palsy, epilepsy or mental retardation).

Anybody desiring help should contact the system by calling 601-944-0485 or call Governor Finch's Action Line toll free at 1-800-682-5473.

Regular, moderate exercise to keep physically fit is advised by all health experts. However, the term "moderate" is important, and plenty of rest to ease the work load on the heart is equally vital.

Keep your weight down. It isn't too difficult to devise a diet that will provide proper nourishment without adding surplus pounds. Ask your doctor what you should weigh and how to reduce if you're overweight.

Tensions and anxieties aren't easy to reduce or eliminate from your life. But it's wise to try. A good vacation each year is important. A relaxing change of pace on weekends helps.

Baby stroller defect causes serious injury

Collier-Keyworth Co., Commission (CPSC) has initiated a voluntary repair program for about 5,000 of its Consumer Product Safety models 6805, 6806, 7805 and 7806 car-seat/stroller conversion kits.

The kits are used to convert a baby car seat into a stroller by snapping the seat onto a frame, according to Paul Rankin of the Mississippi Board of Health.

Rankin reports that CPSC staffers believe that a design defect in the metal seat supports of the stroller frame could cause the supports to spread apart, allowing the seat to disengage and throwing the infant forward.

CPSC has learned 13 incidents where this happened.

At least five of the children received lacerations and other facial injuries.

The stroller kits in question, which were distributed nationwide, retail for about $28 and were manufactured before March 14, 1977.

Rankin notes that some, but not all, units may have the model number on the back leg of the frame.

More important, he says,

"If your stroller conversion kit does not have two hinged metal braces reveted at right angles to the top of the stroller frame seat support and reinforcing the seat from directly beneath call or write

National Register lists three new state sites

Three additional Mississippi properties have been entered in the National Register of Historic Places, giving the state a total of 206 sites in its Register. Elbert R. Hilliard, director of the State Department of Archives and History. The Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, reported the new listings.

The new entries are the Church of the Holy Trinity, Vicksburg; the James Creek No. 1 Site, Lowndes County; and the Brownrigg-Harrison-Kennebrew House, Columbus.

The Church of the Holy Trinity, located on the southeast corner of South and Monroe streets in Vicksburg, was begun in 1870 and completed twenty-four years later.

A rare building achievement during the Reconstruction period, the church is considered to be the finest example in Mississippi of Romanesque Revival architecture, a popular nineteenth century style which features the round arch.

The church is remarkable for its rich variety of detail and its generous scale including an impressive 170-foot high tower.

His promotion to lieutenant general will become effective July 1 or upon Senate confirmation, whichever is later.

Among the church's twenty-two stained glass windows are six designed and executed by the Tiffany Studios, one of which was dedicated to the dead of both the Union and Confederate armies who fell during the siege of Vicksburg in 1863.

The James Creek No. 1 Site is situated on the north bank of James Creek in Lowndes County. The site, containing pottery and other archaeological remains could prove useful in reconstructing the cultural sequence of the area from 1500 B.C. to 1500 A.D.

The Brownrigg-Harrison-Kennebrew House, or Temple Heights located at 515 Ninth Street North in Columbus is a unique interpretation of a Greek Revival, temple-form house.

Its distinctive styling is the result of the ca 1854 addition of giant-order Doric portico the three sides of the original house recalls the building tradition of his native eastern North Carolina.

The National Register of Historic Places authorized by the Historic Preservation Act of 1966 identifies those properties worthy of preservation for their historic, architectural, or cultural significance and provides some measure of protection from alteration by federally supported projects.

The National Register is administered in Mississippi by the Department of Archives and History.

American Legion pitchers held Dixie Realty to just three hits and the offense produced some hard-fought runs Sunday to come away with a 8-1 triumph.

Kelly Geroux was the winner, taking over for David Strong.

Barnes and Strong also led at the plate with two hits and three runs apiece. Jeff Kergosien was tagged with the loss, allowing three earned runs in going the distance.

Kergosien, Joe Ward, and Bobby Waterman were the only hitters for Dixie, a team that committed nine errors.

Rotary Club used a walk, single, and a couple of passed balls to score a run in the 7th and defeat Chazez Construction 7-6. Rotary, who scored the unearned run against Ricky Hardie, 1-2, also tallied a run in the sixth to tie the score and bring a final inning showdown.

Perre Cabell, who took over for Starter Joe Gex, was credited with his fourth win in as many decisions. Cabell also aided his cause with two infield singles while Mark Smith also contributed a single and RBI.

Chazez scored three runs in both the 2nd and 5th, as Donald Carver, Hardie, and Brian Adam tallied twice. Hardie also had two hits and Carver and Adam added a hit apiece as Rotary pitching shut down the Chazez offense.

Bobby Richardson fashioned a 2-hitter, and the Coast Electric offense followed with an 8-bit attack, as they overpowered Chazez Construction Tuesday 11-0.

Richardson, with the help of errorless play behind him, allowed only one man past second base and he fanned four and walked one.

Chuck Benigno and Kenny Benigno led Coast with two hits apiece, and Neal Wikerson added a triple and two RBI's. Brian Adam absorbed the loss for Chazez, allowing two earned runs in going the distance.

Adam and Donald Carver had lone singles, which Jaycees tell building plans on St. John St.

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees have purchased a lot on St. John Street, near Highway 40, for construction of a Jaycee meeting hall.

Jaycee members have already begun clearing the land for the facility.

Project chairman Charley Barrack said, "Thus far we have started clearing the lot and we'll be working the next few weekends before the land will be ready for the groundbreaking ceremony."

Barrack added that, "We would like to also build a Youth Center, but without the assistance of the county we have been unable to do this. However, when the building is completed, we plan to begin some youth activities there."

The Jaycee property consists of 150 feet fronting on St. John Street, runs 125 feet to the Coast Electric vehicle maintenance area and is zoned commercial (C-12).

Barrack praised Mayor Bennett and the City of Bay St. Louis for their cooperation on the project.

A formal announcement for groundbreaking ceremonies and public showing of plans for the building will be in about two weeks, he noted.

Echoes

Mrs. Charles Sciamma, Jr. and daughter Ashley arrived Sunday from Pasadena, Tex., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sciamma Sr. and family in Bay St. Louis and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Copper Andrews, in Long Beach. They will be joined over the weekend by Mr. Sciamma.

Frank Sample of Portland, Ore., is visiting this week with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Boudreux and his mother, Mrs. Clara Sample.

Safety Commission urges caution in watersports

With the Fourth of July weekend approaching, the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission has issued a plea for extra safety precautions on the part of swimmers and boaters.

"Sure it's fun to get out and boat with your family or friends, but remember to take a few safety precautions while boating and you may save a life," commented Mitch Reeves, commission director.

Ask the following questions:

Have you a life preserver (P.F.D.) for each person on board your boat?

Is your boat in good mechanical condition?

Do you have too many people in your boat for its size?

Are you careful in fueling your boat?

Are you celebrating the Fourth with alcoholic beverages?

Your chances of returning home safely are better if you don't drink while operating your boat.

Local beaches and streams will be crowded over the holiday. Those planning to enjoy the water should follow simple safety precautions.

Know your own swimming ability and never exceed it. Trying to swim great distances or under adverse conditions can be dangerous.

Never swim alone. Always swim with a group or at least one other good swimmer who has the ability to help when necessary.

Care must be taken when swimming from a boat. Swim near shore and away from boating lanes. Anchor your craft before you enter the water. Have a lifesaving device handy and keep one person in the boat as an observer.

Never dive into water of unknown depth. When you do dive, keep your arms over your head for protection. Swim at a supervised beach or pool if possible and obey the rules. Children should be closely supervised around water.

Don't swim immediately after heavy meals, when you are overheated, tired or after strenuous exercise.

Learn basic reaching rescues.

Do not substitute inflated tubes, air mattresses, or other artificial supports for swimming ability. They can be easily punctured.

The best water safety advice is to learn how to swim properly.

Lessons are readily available from the American Red Cross, YMCA, YWCA, schools and many other institutions.

A THOUSAND FACES — One of the greatest things about Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi with the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus. Also this weekend on the Coast will be the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo with headquarters at the Gulfport Pier.

School food service personnel complete Hattiesburg workshop

More than 100 school food service, and day care personnel from across the state recently attended the University of Southern Mississippi's 31st annual school food service manager's workshop.

Twenty from the coast area were among those who attended the workshop. Included from Bay St. Louis was Janet B. Aime, assistant and secretary, St. Stanislaus School and Marty Deatherage, cafeteria supervisor, Hancock County School District.

From Pass Christian — Gladys M. Ladner, manager, Pass Christian Public Schools; Wilma Necaise, lunchroom manager, Pass Christian Public School System; Amy L. Pavolini, manager, Annunciation School; and Sarah Shiyou, cafeteria manager, Hancock County.

Dr. Margaret McCarthy, chairman of the USM Department of Institution Administration, John Walker, assistant director of administration and finance, Mississippi State Department of Education, and Mary Claire Landry, assistant professor of institution administration, School of Home Economics, directed the workshops.

The University sponsors a number of workshops throughout the year. Those interested in attending a workshop should contact the Department of Conferences and Workshops at USM-Gulf Park.

Black cutworms menace state's soy bean crop

Soybean producers throughout the state are experiencing stand loss caused by the black cutworm, according to Dr. Lavone Lambert, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) pest management specialist.

"The adult insect deposits eggs in low areas. After hatching, the larvae move into the soil where they spend the daylight periods.

"At night, they emerge from the soil and cut the soybean plants off at or just above the soil line," he explains. "The tops of the plants are then consumed. Sometimes, the plants will be cut off below the soil line."

"Wet conditions with cool nights, as we've had for the past few weeks, are extremely favorable for the buildup of this pest," says Lambert.

"Heaviest damage is occurring on young beans in low lying soils. Damage to beans on higher lying soils is not usually at economic levels," he adds.

Producers should survey their soybeans for damage from this pest. If controls are necessary, producers are urged to contact their county agents for the latest recommended control practices.

The University sponsors a number of workshops throughout the year. Those interested in attending a workshop should contact the Department of Conferences and Workshops at USM-Gulf Park.

If you're not careful your CB antenna could put you in touch with a lot more than you bargained for.

Unfortunately, your CB base station antenna will not only help you reach more people, it could also put you in touch with our power lines.

And the slightest contact between you, your antenna and our lines could be fatal.

So, before you put up your antenna, here are a few suggestions you should follow.

First, we recommend you have a professional do it for you.

Okay, if you're determined to do it yourself, look out for power lines. The ones attached to poles. And the ones attached to your house.

If you can't tell a power line from a phone line, don't experiment. Steer clear.

Then make sure you locate your antenna (including supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. Which means, a 30-ft. high antenna should be 45 feet away from all power lines in all directions.

That way, if it falls during construction, or gets blown down during a storm, it won't hit any lines and endanger you or your neighbors.

Trying to carry an antenna, climb a ladder and keep your balance all at the same time is risky business, too.

Wait for a calm day, assemble the antenna where you intend to put it up, be sure to ground the antenna properly and get somebody to help you.

School-age immunization need reemphasized by local officials

School and health officials in Hancock County have expressed concern that most parents in the county may wait until the last minute to comply with new state law mandating compulsory immunizations for elementary school children.

Students in first through eighth grades will be compelled to leave school within the first 90 days of the coming school year if they are not immunized against polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus.

The invention of vaccination has helped to ebb the flow of such diseases, according to the Mississippi Health Systems Agency in Jackson.

OLE MISS SCHOLARSHIPS — Graduates of St. Stanislaus and Bay Senior High School are among ten freshman entering the University of Mississippi this fall to receive Carrier Scholarships. The four year scholarships were awarded to Michelle Marie Crill, graduate of Bay High, and Phillip Allan Mueller of Pass Christian, graduate of St. Stanislaus.

Public TVairs review

Dealing with the phone company is examined on the next "Consumer Survival Kit" program at 1:30 p.m. next Sunday, July 2, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Alan Alda is guest and illustrates in a skit the possible phone of the future. In a recent annual report, AT&T reported assets of more than $86 million. That's more than five times the gold in Fort Knox. It operates 23 telephone companies which service nearly all of the 150 million phones in the U.S.

Film footage will show how the electronic marvel grew into the colossal conglomerate it is today. Viewers also will be shown how the company operates, how it fends off competition and how it sets rates.

Tips will be given on how to deal with service representatives and how to get the service and features that are wanted in home and office telephones.

But in fighting and pursuing the epidemic outbreaks of the 1950's, especially with access to prevention so close at hand! What has caused us to come to this fearful possibility?

The answer seems to be contained primarily in: apathy, ignorance, procrastination and misguided belief. Because the occurrence of these diseases has not been major, and thus, not usually publicly known, parents show little concern in keeping up with the recommended immunization schedule.

Some are not even aware of such schedule. Unfortunately, some feel that these diseases were conquered and there is no need for any protective action.

The problem is compounded by the fact that children dread and resist receiving vaccinations, and, since there seems to be little reason to worry, it is convenient and easier to delay the immunization process.

But nature refuses to ignore such mistakes. Germs stand ready to enter any open door and rush in to do their deadly work.

It is frightening reality that a human life can be exterminated or permanently marred because of negligence.

Every parent needs to be made aware that children should be vaccinated against polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus.

The oral polio vaccine and the combination injection for diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus (DPT) should be started when the infant is only about two months of age.

Each of these vaccines is repeated at intervals during the first two years of life and again before school. Vaccination for measles, mumps and rubella should be given shortly after the child's first birthday, either as a single injection combination vaccine or as three individual vaccines, depending on the doctor's preference.

These vaccines are available at your local health centers or from your private physician.

It is urgent that proper steps be taken. Joseph Califano, Jr., secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has directed all states to launch a special effort to raise immunization levels in our population from approximately 65 percent to 90 percent by October 1, 1979, and set up a system of keeping the level high in the years ahead.

The governor of every state was asked to designate a lead volunteer organization that would coordinate statewide volunteer activities to make the public aware of the problems and motivate them to go to the local health departments or to private physicians for needed vaccinations.

In Mississippi, Governor Cliff Finch designated the Mississippi Health Systems Agency, Inc., with Philip W. Laird, as executive director, to head the volunteer action.

Charles Gentry was employed as state coordinator. Working with Gentry is a 24-member action group.

Every county and neighborhood will also be organized to inform and motivate the public to take action in getting their families properly immunized.

Volunteers will be enlisted to assist local health and school officials with records and other clerical responsibilities.

Full advantage will be taken of the American heritage of volunteer and professional cooperation to lift the level of good health for all our citizens.

Help yourself! Check your records. If your children have not had all of their vaccinations or if you are not sure that they have, check with your local health department or your private physician.

To allow children to remain unvaccinated is a type of neglect that can make all other plans and sacrifices meaningless.

Blue Jeans Garden Club met Thursday, June 22.

"We, the following concerned American citizens, petition you, our President, Senators, and Congressmen, to support and vote for federal legislation that shall include and provide for a freedom of choice of doctors and health care; the freedom to have full and complete chiropractic health care provided us in or out of hospitals just as medical, surgical, and osteopathic care is provided in all programs such as national health and accident insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, and Veterans Administration and Civil Services."

On Monday, July 3, a delegation will meet at the White House to discuss the situation with President Carter's policy staff as well as present a CPA certification of the number of names and addresses of the supporters of the petition.

The delegation will go from the White House to the Capitol where they will be met by representatives of the Senate and the House of Representatives for a brief discussion and presentation of the CPA certification of supporters of the petition to their respective 435 representatives and 100 senators.

Jackson State is conducting phone campaign

"Operation Jackson State," a statewide awareness campaign for prospective Jackson State University students, their parents, and the general public will begin June 12, and continues through June 30.

The three-week public awareness campaign conducted annually by the JSU Office of Admissions is designed to provide rapid telephone access to information regarding admission requirements, financial aid, housing, academic affairs, student services and other aspects of the university to prospective students and other interested persons.

Oscar Williams, director of admissions, says that the campaign involves the use of a local and statewide telephone system staffed by the Admissions Office to contact prospective students and receive telephone inquiries concerning university programs and services.

Ongoing calls will originate from the Admissions Office, but will be transferred to other offices or departments for answers to specific concerns. Incoming calls will also be received and be transferred to other offices as the need arises.

Calling hours will run from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Prospective students, parents and the general public outside the Jackson area may call toll free by dialing 1-800-682-5390.

TRACTORS

DECEPTIVE KILLERS

During 1977 farm tractors were responsible for the deaths of 12 Mississippians and ranked second only to drownings as the leading cause of accidental deaths in the rural areas of the state, according to death certificate reports filed with the Mississippi State Board of Health.

One reason why tractors kill so many people each year is that many people own and operate tractors without realizing the hazards involved until they make their first big mistake which often is their last.

Since tractors usually move slowly, compared to other vehicles, most people underestimate the manyfold dangers of driving or working around them. A tractor may look extremely safe with its huge, rubber wheels and relatively slow speeds, but they are very deceptive killers.

Using last year's experience as an example, seven persons died in Mississippi when their tractors overturned and crushed them. Of these seven who overturned tractors a majority of them were not really farmers. One was a student, two were carpenters, and one, an upholsterer.

Two young children, eight and eleven years of age, were killed by tractors - the younger being run over by the tractor and the older fell from the tractor and was struck by a wheel. A 13 year old fell off a tractor and died in a rotary cutter. A 58 year old man fell off his tractor and was run over by a rear wheel, and a 76 year old retired farmer ran into a cable stretched across a field entrance which caught him fatally in the neck.

Overturned tractors are a constant menace to operators in uneven ground - especially when mowing hills pastures where stumps, rocks or washouts may occur and often are hidden by grass or weeds. Some take a chance by operating a tractor on a grade that is too steep and any small rut or obstruction is all that is needed to tip the tractor over.

Although late model tractors are equipped with roll bars to protect drivers from roll-over upsets, very few tractors have this protection.

Although tractors used in field work usually are geared down to slow speeds, most tractors have road speeds that can be a hazard when turning, crossing slopes, or traveling across rough, slick, or muddy surfaces.

Freeing a stuck tractor can be very hazardous if an operator yields to the temptation of trying a very hazardous practice of chaining a fence post to a stuck wheel. The problem here is that with massive power of the tractor's engine and transmission system it is quite possible that the wheel might stand still and suddenly the tractor may flip over backward on top of the operator.

Actually children are killed because an operator will take children riding on a tractor - sometimes even when operating a rotary cutter. All that is necessary for disaster to strike is for a child to lose footing or be dropped when the tractor hits a stump or encounters some other abnormal condition. Even safety minded operators have been killed when mowing and disturbed nests of bumblebees, yellow jackets or wasps, and fell into the equipment during the distraction.

Revenue sharing pours $100 million into construction

Building industry leaders from Hancock County were among members of the Gulf Coast Chapter of Associated General Contractors who heard the state's revenue sharing program subscribed as "a tremendous economic boost to the state."

State Representative Dennis Dollar of Gulfport told the contractors the Mississippi Legislature has appropriated more than $100 million for construction projects through revenue sharing in the past five years.

Dollar said that the large sums appropriated in recent sessions of the legislature for repairs, renovations and new construction throughout the state had "created more jobs and generated more economic benefits than any of the public works programs which are constantly being dreamed-up by the federal government."

"The reason that our construction program has been such an economic asset to the State of Mississippi is our specification that the money be used for needed and worthwhile projects, not just to create makeshift work," he said. "We set the construction priorities ourselves."

Dollar cited such projects as the South Mississippi Retardation Center at Long Beach, the Marine Education Center at Biloxi and new instructional facilities at the University of Southern Mississippi and the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College as examples of the benefits brought to the Gulf Coast area by construction programs enacted during recent legislative sessions.

"In fact, the 1978 session alone saw over $4.7 million worth of new construction funds channeled into Harrison County," he said. "At the present rate, this should create several hundred new jobs and countless thousands of dollars in new business for our area."

Dollar addressed the AGC meeting last week in Biloxi.

Barretts represent area teachers at national convention in Dallas

Bay St. Louis Junior High teacher Judy R. Barrett, vice-president of Bay Local, Mississippi Association of Educators, will represent the local at the National Education Association convention in Dallas July 1 to 6.

Ms. Barrett, of 123 Lafayette Drive, Waveland, and social studies teacher at the Junior High, will join some 75 other Mississippi delegates at the NEA meeting.

Ms. Barrett's husband Burt will also attend the convention. He is a MAE staff representative for the group's District Six which includes Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, George, Stone, Perry and Green Counties.

Ms. Barrett was elected by the local as convention delegate. Junior High teacher-coach Mike Cave is the new president of MAE's Bay Local.

Some 10,000 NEA members are expected at the Dallas gathering, Ms. Barrett noted.

NEA President John Ryor and NEA Executive Director Terry Herndon will give annual reports to the delegates.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of Operation PUSH, will speak and Fredrick Pierce, president of ABC-TV will discuss a cooperative program between ABC and NEA dealing with the development of critical faculties of children who watch too much TV.

Ellie Peterson, co-chairman of ERAmerica, will be on the program.

Ms. Joan Ganz Cooney, creator and producer of "Sesame Street" and the "Electric Company" will receive the Friend of Education Award this year.

In addition to regular business sessions, other events are scheduled including a human rights awards dinner, delegates ball, and friendship night.

Among the items expected to create a great deal of discussion are the tuition tax credit, the cabinet level Department of Education and the implications for education of the recent California tax cut.

"Our delegates form coalitions with other states which share our concerns, and thus, influence the action of the convention," said John E. Ashley, MAE executive secretary.

An endorsement procedure for the 1980 presidential campaign will be determined by the delegates. Business items will also include resolutions and constitutional amendments.

"Serving as a delegate is a challenging experience, demanding careful study of the issues and long hours of hard work. It is a special privilege to represent Mississippi teachers in a national convention where there are 10,000 delegates present," concluded Ms. Barrett.
